

BEAUTIFUL MOUNT GLENWOOD CEMETERY.

Every Colored family in Chicago has a grand opportunity to secure a family cemetery lot at a very low price and on easy terms, $2.00 cash and $2.00 per month.

You will find a coupon printed on another page in this issue which is good for $5.00 as the first payment on a Cemetery lot in Beautiful Mount Glenwood, when accompanied with a small cash payment of $2.00 on any lot in Section F or C, or $5.00 and any lot in Section D. This offer is only good until March 1, so those who are wise will take advantage of this opportunity to have a lot and make a saving of $5.00. A Cemetery lot is a family necessity and the time to buy is when you are in health and are able to make the small payments. A Chicago Cemetery lot is a new Cemetery like Beautiful Mount Glenwood is also a good investment as these lots must grow in value as improvements are made and the demand increases each year for lots.

WAYMAN CHAPEL NOTES.

Sermon Sunday, February 25, will be as follows: Preaching at 11:00 A. M. The Sunday Club will meet at 4:30 P. M. at which time the North Side Women's Club will furnish the program.

The Pastor is preaching a series of sermons on the seven songs of Revelation. The sermon Sunday night will be The Song of Power, in which is a prophecy of final battle of the nations of the earth. This will be the third sermon on this very important subject. Preaching 7:45 P. M.

Sunday, March 3, Special services all day Sunday night will be witnessed a bible scene. Characters in ancient costumes will represent this scene just prior to the sermon.

Every Sunday morning during the month of March there will be special sermons, on the Law of the Lord, at 11:00 A. M.

Miss Irene Goode and Miss Blanch Alernathy will give a concert for the benefit of the rally.

The Thimble Club was re-organized at the Pastor's Tuesday night. Mrs. L. E. Stewart, President.—"S."

COUNTY JUDGE OWENS APPOINTS INHERITANCE TAX COM. MISSIONER.

County Judge John E. Owens this week appointed Charles A. Ward as one of the Inheritance Tax Commissioners attached to the County Court. Similar appointments were made by Judges Carter and Rinaker; Maj. F. A. Denison serving under the former and S. Laing Williams under the latter. Mr. Ward graduated from the Northwestern University Law School and has been in the active practice for the past seven years.

CHIPS

Cary B. Lewis left Memphis, Tenn., the first of this week on his way to the far South.

Mrs. D. H. Anderson, 3018 State street, returned home Monday morning from a ten days rest and vacation trip to St. Louis, Mo.

Attorney William L. Martin, has removed his law offices from 164 W. Washington street, to Room 916 Chicago Opera House Block. See his card in another column of this paper.

Prof. A. C. Elgar's Orchestra, assisted by high-class vocalists, gave a grand musicale and entertainment Monday evening at Quinn Chapel, for the benefit of the Quinn S. S. Athletic Association. The affair was well attended.

State Senator Samuel A. Ettelson, is still making successful headway in his campaign for State's Attorney, and all signs indicate that on primary day April 9th, he will come in under the wire ahead of all of his competitors on the Republican ticket.

The Phalanx Club gave its first annual ball at Oakland Music Hall, last Monday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Eugene E. Renfro led the grand march. Many of those belonging to the upper crust of the best Afro-American society were present at the ball.

Attorney Albert H. Putney, Democratic candidate for associate justice of the Municipal Court, is well known in the Town of Lake. For some years ago, he was a member of the 30th Ward Democratic Club, and on primary day April 9th, the voters will remember him in this section of the city.

The Choral Study Club on Monday evening at the Grace Presbyterian Church, delightfully rendered "The Seven Last Words of Christ" and Mendelssohn's "Lauda Sion," the church was well filled and the singing by all the members of the club was exceedingly fine. Prof. Pedro T. Tinsely was at his best in directing the fifty active members of the club.

Inadequate Refreshment.
Lady (to exhausted furniture removers)—Here's fourpence for you and your friend to get a glass of beer with. Exhausted Furniture Remover—A glass of beer? Love us, lady, a glass of beer ain't no more to us than a snowflake on a red hot stove!—London Opinion.

Peace.
The dove of peace refused to land. Quoth he, "I think I'll wait until I have enough to buy a suit of armor plate."—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Knew His Wife.
Master—Buttons!
Manservant—Yes, sir.
Master—Don't forget to let me know when it's 5 o'clock. I promised to meet my wife at 2, and she'll be vexed if I'm not there when she arrives.—Satire.

The Work.
It's de work what brings de rest—
Makes one dollar ten.
When you does yo' level best
De angels shouts, "Amen!"
—Atlanta Constitution.

Cause For Anger.
"Gee, whiz, I wish I could find the fellow who stole my umbrella!"
"Oh, cut it out! Why do you make a fuss over a little thing like that?"
"Little thing? Why, man, I actually bought that umbrella!"—Catholic Standard and Times.

The Latest About Peter.
Peter, Peter, pumpkin eater,
Had a wife and tried to beat her.
But his wife was a suffragette,
And Peter's in the hospital yet!—Judge.

Appreciation.
American Tourist (gazing into the crater of Mount Vesuvius)—It looks just like the infernal regions.
English Tourist—Oh, I say! How these Americans do travel!—Life.

Leap Year Living.
The cost of living
Is so steep
Girls better look
Before they leap.
—Houston Post.

Why?
"Why do I never get a seat in any subway train?"
"Why must I always clutch a strap which gives my arm a pain?"
A passenger cried to a guard.
"Who pushed him through the door."
"Oh," said the guard, "it's due to the uncertainties of law!"
—New York Press.

Why do New Yorkers when they wish to find a rhyme for door?
Ignore such words as bore and sore
And more and four and floor?
To drag in law in such a case
Appears a pity, for
It rather tends to indicate
That they pronounce it "lawr."
—Chicago Record-Herald.

The Secret.
A certain Washington family is convinced that its eight-year-old Lopefuf is destined to become a great scientist. He has already begun to see the connection between cause and effect.

Not so long ago this youngster was looking at a drop of water through a microscope. Here, there, and everywhere were darting animalcules.
"Now I know," announced the child to the family, "what sings when the kettle boils. It's those little bugs!"—Farm Life.

Bacon.
If you'd listen to the boosters as they crow like corn fed roosters you would think that he created the whole world. Why, they say he wrote the Bible, old Bill Shakespeare was a libel, and with Ananias Milton he has fared.
Epictetus was a faker and old Homer a plagiarizer; to Alexander Pope he dedicated a cone.
A Shakespeare was a liar, Walter Scott a plagiarizer, and Francis Bacon was a mighty big fat liar.
—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Complimentary.
Uncle Tom—Have you named your daughter, Harry?
Harry—Sure thing. I named him after you.
Uncle Tom—That's not very complimentary, is it?
Harry—Oh, well he hasn't got sense enough to know the difference.—Chicago News.

At the Peace Palace.
The guns are hanging over the sea.
In Ecuador the gore flows free.
The Turks are led a merry dance.
There's mischief on in angry France.
In China, too, they smite and slay.
And hundreds fall in Paraguay.
But still, although the news is vague,
All's quiet in the dear old Hague.
—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Distribution of Effort.
"I put a lot of work on that speech of mine," said the new member of congress.
"Of course you did," replied the veteran.
"After you have been here a while you'll learn to put less work on your original speech and save yourself for the explanations."—Washington Star.

A Fallen Idol.
I'm not a hero any more;
She's learned that I have feet of clay.
She's lost the faith she had of yore.
A disappointment's come her way.
Last night her algebra she brought
And asked me if I'd help her through it.
And I refused the aid she sought,
Admitting that I couldn't do it.
—Detroit Free Press.

In Leap Year.
She—Sir, I would like to speak to you about your son.
His Father—Well?
She—I want to marry him.
His Father—How does he feel about it?
She—I am unable to say just how he does feel about it, but he said yes.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Contentment.
Far rather would I rhymester be
And play mine humble biz
Than have writ the poems that Shakespeare wrote
And be whose Shakespeare is.
—Lippincott's Magazine.

Money Makers.
"Gracious!" exclaimed the kind old lady to the beggar. "Are they the best shoes you've got?"
"Why, lady," replied the candid beggar, "could you imagine better ones for this business? Every one of 'em holes means nickels and dimes for me."—Catholic Standard and Times.

Trimmed.
As rich a man as e'er you saw,
But when one day he went to law,
The lawyers' work was so complete
He now has scarce enough to eat.
—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Suspense.
"Yes, I saw the play."
"The plot is rather complicated. I dare say you were in suspense for awhile."
"I was. I thought the woman in front of me wasn't going to take off her big hat, but she finally did."—Kansas City Journal.

A Domestic Dialogue.
Wife—You once gave me presents.
But now I get naught.
Hub—Does the angel give bait
To the fish he has caught?
—Boston Transcript.

Only a Reminder.
"Things are a bit queer at home, I'm afraid. There's your wife sticking her tongue out at you."
"Oh, no. She gave me a letter to post and she's merely reminding me that I must put a stamp on it first."—Fillegende Blatt.

Odd, isn't it?
To take a wife
Is a thing sublime.
But if she's your neighbor
The thing is a crime!
—Satire.

Doesn't Know Any Better.
Gabe—That fellow Slick thinks he knows it all.
Steve—Of course he does. He isn't married, you know.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Tommy—Pop, why is the wife called the better half?
Tommy's Pop—In order, my son, that she may not get the impression she is the whole thing.—Philadelphia Record.

Helen, aged four, was spending a night away from home. At bedtime she knelt at her hostess's knee to say her prayers, expecting the usual prompting.

Finding Mrs. I. unable to help her out, she concluded thus:
"Please, God, 'excuse me. I can't remember my prayers, and I'm stayin' with a lady that don't know any."—Chicago News.

The saddest words
Right off the bat
Are just these four:
"I'm getting fat."
—Memphis Commercial-Appeal.

"Why do you always hold your arms akimbo?"
"It's the bundle habit. I'll outgrow it after living in town for a few weeks."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

They were sitting in the parlor of the pretty little cottage. "Darling," he whispered ardently, "we are rolling outward in the car of love."
"Yes, dear," she whispered, nestling on his broad shoulder, "and we don't need any conductor to say 'Sit closer, please.'"—Tit-Bits.

Lives of great men oft remind us
We need lots of push behind us.
—Judge.

"Is your bookkeeper's heart in his office work?"
"Everybody's heart is in the office work since the blond stenographer came."—Kansas City Journal.

"What is the best fuel for aerial flights?"
"Gasoline."
"What's the best fuel for oratorical flights?"
"Alcohol."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

To win himself both wealth and fame
A man will plunge into the whirl,
And when he's gained an honored name
He goes and gives it to some girl.
—Cincinnati Enquirer.

"Is there anything you can do better than any one else?"
"Yes," replied the small boy. "I kin read my own writin'."—London Tit-Bits.

"I told him there were dozens of people right here in town who had never heard of him." "I guess that took him down a peg or two." "I guess it didn't. He started right out to find them and borrow money from them."—Houston Post.

If she is statuesque and tall,
A frowning Juno sort of girl,
The kind to queen it at a ball,
Be sure her name is Dimple Pearl.
But if she's little and alert,
The kind of girl you want to pet,
A blithe companion and a flirt,
Then it's Augusta Antoinette.
—Puck.

"Larry, what have you been doing to your nose?"
"Th' other mornin', sor, I let it get in th' way av a bigger man's fist."—Chicago Tribune.

"Those two women always greet each other with the most effusive cordiality."
"Yes," replied Miss Cayenne. "Each takes pride in showing the other how artistically she can conceal her real feelings."—Washington Star.

Society is out of gear.
Well may the thoughtful pause and ponder
If one may have a wife down here
And an affinity off yonder.
—Exchange.

He (soulfully)—There are a thousand stars tonight looking down upon you.
She—Is my hat on straight?—St. Louis Republic.

A woman can wear low shoes and thin silk stockings in winter time without feeling any ill effects, but she would rapidly go into a decline if deprived of her furs.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

A suffragette
May fight and fight
And still look under
The bed at night.
—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Bacon—It is said that statistics show that fat men are rarely criminals.
Egbert—Why, don't you think it should be considered criminal to overeat?—Yonkers Statesman.

Merchant (to stranger)—I thank you, sir, for helping my clerk throw that book agent out. Now, what can I do for you?
Stranger—I'd like to tell you the "Life of Washington."—Boston Transcript.

"My love for you is more," he said.
"Than any tongue could say."
In fact, I may with candor say
You're worth your weight in butter."
—Chicago Record-Herald.

De Cobbe—Watto is a fine looking fellow.
O'Brier—Yep. Even a calabash pipe doesn't detract from his appearance.—Buffalo News.

"The time will come," thundered the suffragette orator, "when woman will get a man's wages!"
"Yes," said a muttered man on the rear seat; "next Saturday night."—Judge.

Yes, our hopes are raised
Most every day.
But what we want
Is a raise in pay.
—Cincinnati Enquirer.

A Dining Room Hint.
Before serving dinner place a bowl of boiling water, into which has been dropped a little oil of lavender, on the dining table. This will overcome the closeness of the atmosphere and the odors from the kitchen or pantry which have penetrated into that part of the house.

Punch and Judy.
Punch and Judy shows were originated in Italy during the seventeenth century, and were probably introduced into England in the reign of Charles II.

The Castle in Chess.
The castle in chess owes its shape and name to a misunderstanding of its old Italian name, "rocca," as if it were "rocca," a castle or fortress. The words rocca, rook and roe (French) come from rokk, the old Persian name of the piece, which was in the shape of an elephant. Curiously enough, the elephant carried a little castle on his back, and the position of the piece on the board seemed suitable for a castle.

Illuminating Oils.
Illuminating oils manufactured from petroleum are sold in Great Britain as "paraffin oil," in the United States as "kerosene" and on the continent of Europe as "refined petroleum."

England's Royal Motto.
The motto of the royal arms of England, "Dieu et mon droit," has a disputed origin. Some writers attribute it to Richard I, who adopted it to imply that he held his crown from no other sovereign, but only by divine permission and hereditary right. Others affirm that it was first used by Edward III, when he laid claim to the French crown in right of his mother, Isabella.

Platinum.
Platinum is found associated with gold, principally in gravel beds.
